

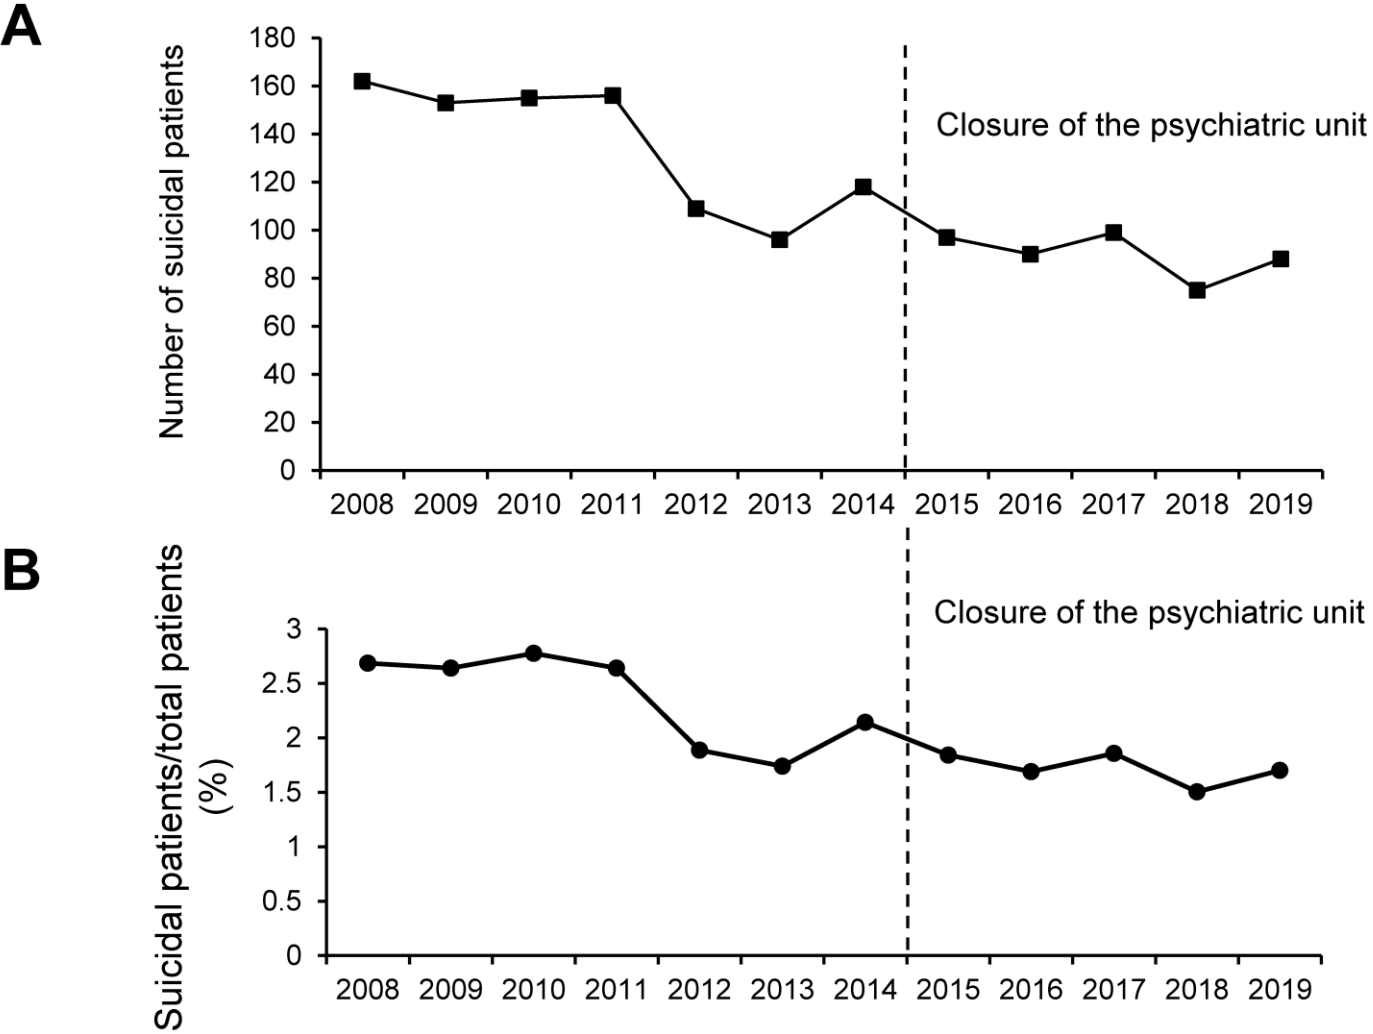

Figure S4.
The number (A) and percentage (B) of suicidal patients brought to the emergency department before and after closure of the psychiatric unit.

The emergency department capacity of admitting suicidal patients started to decline 3 years before closure of the psychiatric unit and did not recover over several years.